Welcome Letter

Dear participant,

Welcome to the European Summer School 2025! You will spend nine days at a 12th-century Cistercian monastery, focusing on Europe's security and defense amid global uncertainty. Collaborate with young professionals and experts from NATO, the European Parliament, and national defense ministries to address urgent geopolitical challenges.

The program also includes a cultural visit to Barcelona and the Sagrada Família. We anticipate your growth, connections, and leadership.

Warm regards,

School of Government and Leadership
Isabel la Católica

The challenges of security and defense in a changing world;
the role of Europe in pursuing the global common good

Make this summer count!

- 1 Spend 9 exciting days in sunny Catalonia (5-13 July)
- 2 Connect with top experts in security and defense, policymakers, and like-minded students
- 3 Tackle real case studies and global challenges
- 4 Enjoy a full-day journey to Barcelona, including a private visit to the iconic Sagrada Familia

The 2025 edition will focus on the critical challenge of the European Union's security and defense amidst crises such as nuclear deterrence, the war in Ukraine, instability in Africa and the Middle East, and growing tensions in Southeast Asia.

The program's framework will be inspired by the Jubilee of Hope convened by the late Pope Francis, with a special focus on hope as a foundational virtue for public leadership.

Get up to an 80% scholarship and join us at Monastery of Poblet

The main goal is to prepare individuals to take on the responsibility of leading during this era of transformation, promoting the common good in all its dimensions.

The program blends interactive training sessions, hands-on workshops, and inspiring keynote lectures — all while offering unique opportunities to connect with a diverse network of peers and professionals.

- 1 Students will develop a bold and values-based strategy for Europe's security and defense in a multipolar world — one rooted in Catholic Social Teaching and guided by a commitment to peace, justice, and human dignity.
- 2 Six distinct modules featuring panel discussions and presentations that will explore the challenge from various disciplines, adopting an open reason approach.
- 3 The pedagogical model is based on three steps: “Detectar - Descubrir y Decidir” (Detect—Discover—Decide), which has resonances with the well-known “see—judge—act”
- 4 Participants will sharpen their ability to analyze global security challenges, refine decision-making, and understand how ethical frameworks shape policy.

Explore the future of Europe and its role in terms of security and defense

This is more than just an academic program—it's a transformative experience. You'll leave with a deeper understanding of Europe's role in the world, enhanced leadership skills, and a network of peers and mentors who share your commitment to the global common good. Don't miss out on this exclusive opportunity to grow, connect, and make a lasting impact!

Student Profile

The European Summer School 2025 is designed for young leaders, ages 22–30, who are passionate about shaping a more secure, just, and peaceful world.

- Are committed to promoting the Common Good in political, social, or public leadership roles.
- Have a strong interest in security, defense, and international affairs, particularly from a humanistic and ethical perspective.
- Aspire to integrate human dignity, solidarity, and justice into policymaking and leadership strategies.
- Are ready to address global challenges with critical thinking, a deep sense of responsibility, and innovative solutions.
- Value integral human development as essential for building lasting peace and security.
- Believe that leadership is a vocation to serve others and foster real change, especially in vulnerable communities.

Professional Development Outlook

Graduates of the European Summer School will be ready to drive change in international organizations like the United Nations, NATO, and the European Union, working in security, peacebuilding, and development. They can advise governments on defense, foreign policy, and human rights, or shape ideas in think tanks and research centers. Opportunities also include diplomatic service, humanitarian NGOs, and global risk consultancy. Those passionate about education can lead the next generation in peace studies, ethical leadership, and security policy — always with a focus on the common good.

1 Embrace the Common Good

Dive into Catholic Social Teaching and understand its ethical foundations for leadership and justice.

2 Apply Ethics to Global Security

Shape European and global security with principles of peace, dignity, and the common good.

3 Lead with Purpose

Connect personal vocation and virtues with impactful, strategic leadership.

4 Reflect on Political Responsibility

Critically analyze the role of institutions in promoting justice and peace in today's world.

5 Create Inclusive Solutions

Design fair and effective security and development strategies that prioritize the needs of the most vulnerable.

Joining the European Summer School 2025 means becoming part of a community of purpose-driven leaders committed to the common good across politics, society, and business. Graduates gain access to a support network that keeps them at the cutting edge, expands their professional opportunities, and connects them with influential leaders.

Strategic Networking

Graduates of the summer school will have access to exclusive meetings with high-ranking officials in the public sector, business leaders, and civil society figures, enabling them to strengthen their network at an early stage and open doors to new opportunities.
